INVESTMENT MANAGER'S REPORT

European Short Term Government Bond Fund (the "Fund")

6 Month 2017 Review

Global government bond yields were slightly lower in Q2 2017 as inflation readings remained weak, economic growth (while positive) remained sluggish, and falling oil prices dimmed the inflation outlook. Credit spreads in the United States of America (US) and Europe drifted sideways and were little changed. The US Federal Reserve raised the federal funds rate in June to a range of 1.00% to 1.25%, its second rate hike in 2017, and said it hoped to start slowly reducing the size of its USD4.5 trillion balance sheet later in 2017. The European Central Bank (ECB) likewise hinted it would like to reduce its asset purchases next year. But each institution seems reluctant to make any move that would disturb markets. Yields rose out to about the three-year maturity, but fell beyond that point. The US 10-year Treasury yield drifted down from 2.40% as the quarter began to 2.30% by quarter-end and the 30-year from 3.00% to 2.80%.

The Bloomberg Barclays (BB) Global Aggregate Bond Index in euros returned -3.80%; governments returned -3.90% while corporate credit returned -2.90%, with negative returns due to euro currency strength and rising yields at short maturities.

In June 2017, the Euro coin indicator rose slightly to 0.62, from 0.60 in May 2017, pointing to a continuing robust expansion of activity in the Euro area. Confidence in prospects for the European economy, have steadily strengthened in 2017 and growth estimates have been revised upward. The consensus outlook for real gross domestic product growth in the Eurozone in 2017 and 2018 has risen from 1.50% each year when 2017 began to 1.80% and 1.70% respectively at the end of Q2 2017 - not strong numbers by post-WWII historical standards, but moving in a positive direction. Combined with the year's election results, the improving outlook has inspired hopes that the continent's long and painful battle with austerity and recession may be coming to an end.

At 1 June 2017, the Fund's allocation changed as a result of guideline modification to allow up to 30% corporate bond exposure and to also allow for a wider range of European sovereigns. The new benchmark adopted is a blend of the BB European Aggregate Treasury 1-3 year (80%) and the BB European Aggregate Corporate Index 1-3 year (20%). For the six month financial period, the Fund returned -0.34% trailing the blended benchmark return by -0.08%. For the same period, the BB European Government 1-3 year Term Index returned 0.07%.

Underperformance for the six month financial period was due to the negative contribution of the two and four year maturity buckets, which lagged the contribution to return for the benchmark. In general, sovereign bonds further compounded negative results as the Fund's exposure lagged the index. Spanish bonds provided a positive offset, although contribution to performance was not sufficient to negate the drag created by other areas.

Given the recent benchmark change, the portfolio is in the process of adding to the Sovereign sector and building out the Credit sector. Sovereigns include exposure to Germany, France, Netherlands and other Euro-based countries, however Italy and Spain remained the largest exposures with almost 46% of the assets and an overweight of 13%. Around 12% of the Fund's assets are now invested in corporate bonds, which are being added to, but are still below the benchmark weight given the lack of yield and market opportunities.

Going forward, the sub-investment manager will continue to increase corporate exposure within the Fund to meet the new guideline mandate. We expect further country and asset diversification to benefit the Fund over time.

World Bond Fund (the "Fund")

6 Month 2017 Review

For the first six months of 2017, the Fund returned -3.85% versus the Barclays Global Aggregate (EUR) benchmark's (the "Benchmark")* -3.45% return.

During Q1 2017, the Fund returned 0.33% versus the Benchmark's 0.35% return.

The portfolio's USD credit exposure had a negative impact over the quarter; the overweight position was maintained as credit selection opportunities showed long term value. Exposure to Mexican treasuries contributed positively to performance via foreign exchange exposure. Positioning in core Europe versus periphery was a positive for the quarter. Underweighting Italy had a positive impact on performance as Italian yields increased. The portfolio's US underweight duration position had a positive contribution, as the market sold off in advance of the US rates hike, but detracted from returns later in the quarter as the market moved to price a 'dovish' hike. Exposure to US inflation generated positive returns, despite weaker inflation expectations in February 2017 and March 2017. Exposure to the United Kingdom (UK) was positive, as 10-year gilts yields declined over the financial period.

During Q2 2017, the Fund returned -0.05% versus the Benchmark's 0.08% return.

Credit and active currency strategies made positive contributions to performance, while interest rate and inflation strategies detracted. The less dovish tone from central bankers caused markets to price higher bond yields later in June prompting a sharp rebound in directional duration positions, which was beneficial for performance. Currency positioning was additive with the portfolio benefiting particularly from a weaker sterling versus euro.

Positioning at 30 June 2017

The portfolio's overall duration underweight exposure was increased; as of 30 June 2017 the portfolio duration was 6.48 years versus the benchmark at 6.99 years. Part of the underweight position in the US was rotated into underweight core Europe and the UK, where the portfolio was overweight in advance of the UK election. The underweight position in core Europe was held to protect against a political shock around the French election, but also given that absent such a shock, the market would turn its attention to the potential issues affecting the ECB bond purchase program, leading to higher yields. After the French election passed without incident, the underweight France position was rotated into an overweight France versus Germany position. At the same time, the underweight Italy versus Germany position was increased. Political events also determined UK positioning with UK 10-year yields compressed towards 1%, presenting an opportunity to take profits on the outright overweight UK and country position versus core Europe. The US underweight was reduced at the start of the financial period; subsequently the position was increased in June 2017, while reducing exposure to US inflation-linked bonds. Corporate bond exposure is being maintained, with the preference being US dollar denominated (USD) issues over euro (EUR) and sterling (GBP) issues.

Active currency exposures were repositioned over the quarter, reducing the main active positions of underweight GBP versus EUR and USD, maintaining the overweight Czech koruna (CZK) and Norwegian krone (NOK) versus EUR and maintaining the Japanese yen overweight. Asian currency positions include; underweight Korean won (KRW) and underweight Australian dollar (AUD) position which provides a hedge against the portfolio's emerging market exposure.

The overall level of credit risk in the portfolio was decreased. Credit positioning was positive, driven predominantly by holdings in US credit and mortgage backed securities; while the allocation to asset backed and agency bonds detracted from returns.

European Equity Fund (the "Fund")

6 Month 2017 Review

For the first six months of 2017, the Fund returned 8.28% versus the MSCI Europe EUR Index's 7.21% return and the STOXX Europe Christian EUR Net Index's 6.42% return.

During Q1 2017, the Fund returned 6.49% versus the MSCI Europe Index's 6.12% and the STOXX Europe Christian EUR Net Index's 5.71% return. The primary source of strength was stock selection in healthcare, which added nearly 90 basis points in relative return. This was driven by very strong performance among several biotech holdings in addition to comparatively strong returns from the Fund's pharmaceutical industry holdings. In the energy sector, the Fund benefited from favorable positioning within the oil, gas and consumable fuels industry, where stock selection added about 25 basis points to relative return. Selection in the information technology sector was a third, albeit minor, source of strength as positioning among information technology services and semiconductor names added almost 20 basis points. The primary detractor was stock selection in consumer staples, which cost about 40 basis points in relative return. The screened tobacco industry gained nearly 15% while Fund positioning in the personal products and food products industries suffered from weakness among a few positions and avoidance of several strong benchmark names. Selection in industrials was also a minor weak spot, costing about 20 basis points in relative return as Fund positions slightly lagged benchmark names.

During Q2 2017, the Fund returned 1.68% versus the MSCI Europe Index's 1.03% return and the STOXX Europe Christian EUR Net Index's 0.67% return. The Fund benefited the most from stock selection in the healthcare sector, supported by strong performance of biotech holdings such as Ipsen SA (+28%), BTG Plc (+16%), H Lundbeck A/S (+13%) and STADA Arzneimittel AG (+11%), while avoiding pharmaceuticals such as Hikma (-27%), Roche (-6%) and GSK (-3%) also helped. Selection in energy was favorable; the Fund benefited again from the strong performance of the Austrian explorer and refiner OMV AG (+25%) while avoiding Royal Dutch Shell Plc (-6%) and Eni SpA (-12%). Stock selection in technology was a minor weak spot as equipment maker Ingenico Group SA lost 9% after a weak earnings report while Dialog Semiconductor Plc lost 22%.

The international geopolitical situation remains uncertain, particularly regarding North Korea and the Middle East. China's monetary conditions have been tightening recently, which could weigh on future growth. The British government has been weakened after failing to gain a majority just before starting Brexit negotiations. Though, the quarter started on positive footing, investor sentiment weakened in June 2017 as global growth uncertainties returned and central banks hinted at plans for eventual tapering of aggressive asset purchases.

The sub-investment manager maintains disciplined relative value screening and its systematic implementation of the strategy. In the past, relative performance has suffered when investor risk aversion and political policy uncertainty has surged, but the current potential for stability or improvement in these areas seems to be high. Only a very bleak (and seemingly improbable) scenario of Eurozone dislocation, the return to global deep recession and returning deflation would pose severe challenges for the strategy's success. The current macro and credit environment seems to support the opposite outcome, even if some macro and political uncertainties remain over the short run.

World Equity Fund (the "Fund")

6 Month 2017 Review

For the first six months of 2017, the Fund returned -0.71% net of fees, a result that is 4.11% lower than the MSCI All Country World Index benchmark (the "Benchmark")* return of 3.40%.

For Q1 2017, the Fund returned 3.59%, nearly 200 basis points behind the Benchmark return of 5.56%. The performance deficit emanated from both sector and stock selection results relative to the index. The sector bets within the Fund are driven almost exclusively by the high conviction fundamental stock picking sub-investment manager, Scott Investment Partners LLP, who holds a relatively small number of stocks and is very patient while investment themes play out within the equity markets. This sub-investment manager currently has zero holdings in Financials; the allocation within the Benchmark index exceeds 18%. To make up the difference, this sub-investment manager maintains significant overweights to Energy, Industrials, and Health Care. Even with these significant allocation differences, the Q1 2017 performance shortfall from sector selection is entirely attributable to the overweight in Energy; a 4.5% overweight subtracted 52 basis points in excess return. By contrast, the Fund's other sub-investment manager, Los Angeles Capital Management and Equity Research Inc., employs a much more quantitative and widely diversified approach to selecting securities.

Both sub-investment managers failed to keep pace with the index in terms of stock selection within sectors – the largest contributions to the deficit occurring in Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary, together subtracting more than 100 basis points in relative return. In Information Technology, the names in the index that the Fund did not own and which performed extremely well in Q1 2017 (Facebook Inc, Tencent, Alibaba and others with 15% to 20% returns for the quarter) were responsible for a significant portion of the performance shortfall. Similarly within Consumer Discretionary, the Fund did not hold several internet retail companies with surging valuations – companies like Priceline, Amazon and Netflix. The Fund's overweight in automobile companies proved detrimental as returns there were quite weak.

The Fund returned -4.16% during Q2 2017, more than 200 basis points behind the benchmark return of -2.05%. The performance deficit emanated from both sector and stock selection results relative to the index, with the specific security choices being the bigger factor. Similar to the experience in the first quarter, the portion of performance shortfall in Q2 2017 attributable to sector selection is explained primarily by the overweight in Energy; a 2.9% overweight subtracted 28 basis points in excess return.

The composite stock selection results within sectors were again disappointing – the largest contributions to the deficit occurring in Information Technology and Industrials, together subtracting more than 100 basis points in relative return. Again similar to the Q1 2017 experience, some key Information Technology companies in the index the Fund did not own and performed relatively well in Q2 2017 (Alphabet, Tencent, Alibaba for example) and were responsible for a significant portion of the performance shortfall. Within Industrials, the negative results were mostly attributable to disappointing returns among the Fund's choices in machinery companies, trading companies and distributors.

The Fund currently maintains underweights in Financials, Consumer Staples and Telecom – with offsetting overweights in Energy and Materials, and other sectors to a lesser extent. Both sub-investment managers place a premium on value-oriented metrics for security selection while searching for above average growth potential for their investments. The Fund's composite 12 month trailing price-earnings ratio increased somewhat recently to 18.6, but still stands below the 19.0 ratio for the overall market. The trend of growth oriented stocks performing better than value investments remains a headwind for the Fund's sub-investment managers, as it has for many active equity strategies. When this trend eventually reverses to more historical norms, we expect the Fund's level of performance will improve.

*References to benchmarks are for illustrative purposes only. There is no guarantee that the Fund will outperform this benchmark.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Accounting policies

The principal accounting policies and estimation techniques applied in the preparation of these financial statements are set out below. These policies have been consistently applied to all the financial years presented, unless otherwise stated.

Basis of preparation

The financial statements of CBIS Global Funds plc (the “Company”) presented are unaudited condensed financial statements for the six month financial period ended 30 June 2017. These unaudited condensed financial statements should be read in conjunction with the financial statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2016. These condensed financial statements for the financial period ended 30 June 2017 have been prepared in accordance with FRS 104 “Interim Financial Reports” (“FRS 104”), Irish statute comprising the Companies Act 2014, the UCITS Regulations and the Central Bank UCITS Regulations.

The significant accounting policies and estimation techniques adopted by the Company for the six month financial period ended 30 June 2017 are consistent with those adopted by the Company for the annual financial statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2016.

The format and certain wordings of the financial statements have been adapted from those contained in Irish statute so that, in the opinion of the Directors, they more appropriately reflect the nature of the Company’s business as an investment fund.

The Company has availed of the exemption available to open-ended investment funds under Section 7 “Statement of Cash Flows” of FRS 102 “The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland” (“FRS 102”), not to prepare a cash flow statement on the basis that substantially all of the Company’s investments are highly liquid and carried at fair value, and the Company provides a statement of changes in net assets attributable to redeemable participating shareholders.

2. Cash at bank and bank overdraft

Cash at bank and bank overdrafts held by the Company are deposited with BNY Mellon SA/NV (the “Global Sub-Custodian”). The ultimate parent company of the Global Sub-Custodian is the Bank of New York Mellon Corporation, a large American financial institution listed on the New York Stock Exchange whose long-term senior debt rating by Standard and Poor’s was A at the end of the financial period (31 December 2016: AA-).

The margin on derivative contracts is held with UBS Limited whose short term security rating by Standard & Poor’s was A-1 at the end of the financial period (31 December 2016: A-1).

3. Share capital

Authorised

The Directors are empowered to issue up to five hundred billion shares of no par value in the Company at the net asset value per share on such terms that they may think fit.

Subscriber shares

Two subscriber shares are in issue. Christian Brothers Investment Services, Inc. (the “Investment Manager”) and Mr. David Skelding each hold one subscriber share. The subscriber shares do not form part of the net asset value of the Company and are thus disclosed in these financial statements by way of this note only.

Redeemable participating shares

The issued redeemable participating share capital is at all times equal to the net asset value of the Company. Redeemable participating shares are redeemable at the shareholder's option and are classified as financial liabilities.

The Company's capital is represented by these redeemable participating shares with no par value and each carrying one vote. They are entitled to dividends and to payment of a proportionate share based on the Company's net asset value per share upon redemption. The minimum initial investment per shareholder in a Fund shall be EUR 50,000 in the case of classes whose functional currency is Euro and USD 65,000 in the case of classes whose functional currency is US Dollar and the minimum subsequent investment shall be EUR 5,000 in the case of classes whose functional currency is Euro and USD 6,500 in the case of classes whose functional currency is US Dollar. The relevant movements are shown in the statement of changes in net assets attributable to holders of redeemable participating shares.

4. Financial risk management

Company risk

The Company is exposed to various risks arising from the financial instruments it holds. The Investment Manager's overall risk management programme focuses on the unpredictability of financial markets and seeks to minimise potential adverse effects on the Company's financial performance. The Investment Manager does not oversee individual security portfolios directly, but rather after review of prospective managers for each Fund mandate, selects sub-investment managers which have in place risk management programmes that seek to limit the potential adverse effects of these risks on the Funds' financial performance. The selection and monitoring process for sub-investment managers involves a 'request for proposal' review, as well as ongoing monthly and quarterly reporting, conference calls and face-to-face meetings with each sub-investment manager once selected.

Global exposure

UCITS funds are required to monitor exposures on a daily basis by utilising either the commitment approach or the value at risk ("VaR") approach when financial derivative instruments ("FDI") are held by the Funds. The sub-investment managers utilise the commitment approach in monitoring the exposures of the Funds when FDI are held as they are satisfied that the market risk can be adequately monitored through this method.

Although permitted to employ FDI, the sub-investment managers of the European Equity Fund, the World Bond Fund, the World Equity Fund and the U.S. Core Equity Index Fund do not currently propose to employ FDI for either efficient portfolio management purposes or for investment purposes. Each sub-investment manager will submit a risk management process to the Central Bank in accordance with the Central Bank UCITS Regulations prior to the engaging in FDI transactions in respect of the Fund it manages.

The Funds will not invest in FDI until such time as a risk management process has been submitted to and cleared by the Central Bank by the relevant sub-investment manager. As at the financial period end, one of the sub-investment managers of the European Short Term Government Bond Fund, ARCA SGR S.p.A., has submitted a risk management process to the Central Bank in accordance with the Central Bank UCITS Regulations.

Each Fund's activities expose it to a variety of financial risks: market risk (including market price risk, interest rate risk and currency risk), credit risk and liquidity risk.

The main risks arising from the company's financial instruments are summarised below.

a) Market price risk

Market price risk is the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices (other than those arising from interest rate risk and currency risk), whether those changes are caused by factors specific to individual financial instruments or its issuer, or other factors affecting similar financial instruments traded in the market. The Company seeks to mitigate market price risk through a variety of techniques including diversification of holdings and investment limitation guidelines agreed with sub-investment managers.

4. Financial risk management (continued)

b) Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk is comprised of fair value interest rate risk and cash flow interest rate risk. Fair value interest rate risk is defined as the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. This risk arises in respect of financial instruments whose fair value is affected by changes in interest rates. Cash flow interest rate risk is the yield risk arising from changes in interest rates i.e. change in interest rates would have a direct impact on the yield generated by a Fund over the financial period.

c) Currency risk

Currency risk is the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign exchange rates. The risk arises on financial instruments that are denominated in a currency other than the functional currency in which they are measured. The sub-investment managers monitor the currency exposure each dealing day in accordance with the Prospectus.

d) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to discharge an obligation. This includes counterparty risk and issuer risk.

e) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company may not be able to generate sufficient cash resources to settle its obligations in full as they fall due or can only do so on terms that are materially disadvantageous.

The Company is exposed to daily cash redemptions of redeemable participating shares. The Company therefore invests its assets in investments that are traded in an active market and can be readily disposed of. Listed securities held by the Funds are considered readily realisable, as they are listed on a stock exchange or dealt on a regulated market.

Fair value estimation

The Company is required to classify fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements.

The fair value hierarchy has the following levels:

- Level 1: The unadjusted quoted price in an active market for identical assets or liabilities that the entity can access at the measurement date.
- Level 2: Inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable (ie developed using market data) for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly.
- Level 3: Inputs are unobservable (i.e. for which market data is unavailable) for the asset or liability.

The level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement is categorised in its entirety is determined on the basis of the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. For this purpose, the significance of an input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety.

If a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment based on unobservable inputs, that measurement is a level 3 measurement. Assessing the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgement, considering factors specific to the asset or liability. The determination of what constitutes “observable” requires significant judgement by the Investment Manager. The Investment Manager considers observable data to be those market data that are readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market.
